

Excerpt from Industrial Problems This book is intended for use in the general propaganda work of the Socialist party. I believe it contains the sort of matter that should be in the hands and heads of the producing masses of our country. I have set down the things that I think all should know, and have endeavored to state them in language that they can easily follow. There are few of our citizens but realize that there is much that is wrong in matters industrial, many things that should and must be remedied. They know that we are facing serious economic problems; but they do not know either the nature or the scope of those problems. Then it follows that they do not know that those problems have a common origin and therefore a common solution. To teach that lesson is the chief mission of this work. I have hewn sufficiently close for all practical purposes to what is technically scientific in Socialist philosophy. My ambition is to get some truths into peoples minds and to do this I have endeavored to keep within range of easy comprehension. The author is willing to submit to adverse criticism, if any see fit to administer it, if only he can impress upon his fellow men the great lesson to be learned from the industrial conditions that now obtain. If he can aid his readers in a sane interpretation of the events in which they are personally taking part, he shall have accomplished much and will be richly rewarded in that accomplishment.
